Sword 2x3.0 Combicon - Mono Center Speaker

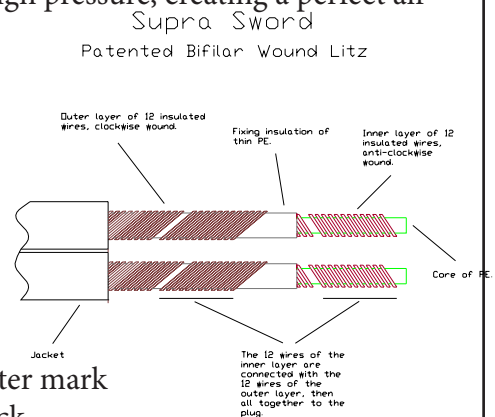

The foundation of Supra Sword's outstanding performance is its bifilar-wound litz conductors, comprising 24 individually insulated strands per pole. Twelve strands are wound in one direction and twelve in the opposite, effectively cancelling magnetic fields and resulting in extremely low inductance. The individually insulated litz strands also minimize dynamic skin effect, allowing Sword to behave as a non-inductive and phase-stable cable across the entire audible frequency range. The result is a transparent transfer of the signal from amplifier to speaker, preserving every detail and dynamic nuance of the music.

Sword is supplied with crimped M6 threaded adaptors and a set of matching connectors. The images show both spade and banana/BFA connectors, with the option to screw the banana/BFA connector directly onto the connector body.

The connector body and conductor are crimped together under very high pressure, creating a perfect air-tight connection for optimal conductivity and long-term reliability.
