Sword-ISL Interconnect - The High End

The cable acts as a highly transparent signal carrier without the side effects commonly found in traditional cable designs, such as frequency response irregularities and phase shift. SUPRA Sword maintains signal integrity with extremely low distortion, achieved through a precisely controlled electro-physical design rather than compensation-based filtering or add-on circuitry. The Sword series is engineered for neutrality and is difficult to surpass regardless of price.

What does it sound like? It does not add a sound of its own. SUPRA Sword aims for complete neutrality.

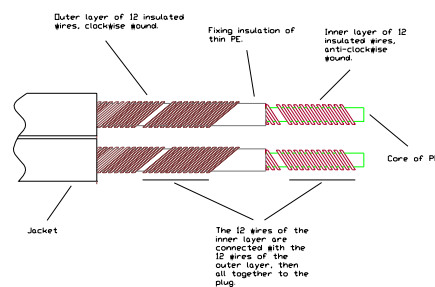

It transmits the full audio signal without introducing audible distortion or timing errors (phase shift), preserving the original timing and dynamics from source to loudspeaker. The result is a highly transparent signal path, allowing the rest of the system—electronics, speakers, and room acoustics—to determine the final sound.
